3. For the 1954-55 term there were approximately 800 students in the Department of Mathematics, 400 students in the Department of Physics, and 200 students in the Department of Chemistry. The 800 students in the Department of Mathematics are distributed as follows:

a. First year:	150 in four-year term;	30 in five-year term;
b. Second year:	160 in four-year term;	25 in five-year term;
c. Third year:	170 in four-year term;	25 in five-year term;
d. Fourth year:	180 in four-year term;	35 in five-year term; and
e. Fifth year:		25 in five-year term.

There were 250 students admitted to the Department of Mathematics in 1952, 220 students in 1953, and 190 students in 1954. In general, only 50 percent of the students admitted to the faculty actually complete their studies and graduate.

4. About 90 percent of the students of the faculty are members of the DSNM, the Communist Youth Movement. Until 1951-52 membership in this movement was a primary condition for admittance to the university, but since 1952 it has lost much of its former significance and is no longer considered essential. The number of Party members in the faculty is comparatively small. The Party cell in the Department of Mathematics has only 50 to 60 members.
5. The teaching staff of the Department of Mathematics comprises eight professors, one docent, one lecturer, two candidates, and 12 assistant lecturers.
